

Weekly Progress Report-5

During this week, my main priority was to accumulate all the necessary car-related data for inputting into the website. The coding for the website was successfully finished last week, and this week was dedicated to the gathering of information.